ALLIES PLAN NORTH AFRICA AIR OFFENSE

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

Years ago when the C. H. & D. Railroad Station, for years referred to as the "burnt wood" station by reason of part of it having been damaged by fire and never fully repaired, was located on the west side of South Fayette Street, Bill Long and William Day were telegraph operators.

As I recall it Long was on the day trick and Day on the night trick. Anyway, when Long would sign off at the end of his stretch at the wire, he would always write "So Long," and when Day signed off at the end of his trick, he would always write "Good Day."

Most of you know Robert E. Minshall, farmer boy who grew up a few miles outside of Washington C. H., received his high school education here, and who for years was manager of the Hotel Washington before taking up other work.

Bob and his family reside on Van Deman Avenue, and for the last three years he has been affiliated with the Conservation Department, most of the time being stationed at Indian Lake.

For sometime Bob has been connected with the publicity department of the State Conservation Department, and part of his work is giving a series of weekly broadcasts on conservation, and contributing toward the "Ohio Conservation Bulletin," official organ of the department.

In the December issue Bob has an interesting article on conservation work in Fayette County, illustrated with a number of photos, nearly two pages of the magazine being devoted to Fayette County.

The pictures illustrating the article show the Rock Bridge dam, Clayton Sexton and 108 bass heads nailed to his garage, Stanley Mark, president of the Fayette County Conservation League, leaders of the Washington High School conservation club, Dr. Fred D. Woollard, sportsmen's representative, Grant Coffman, John Ducey, Glen Smith and son, Stanley, and Ed Fite.

Bob has written a very able resume of the activities of conservationists and sportsmen in the county over a period of years. He is making good in a big way with the conservation department.

With farmers now assured enough gasoline for "essential needs" the special efforts made to iron out some of the flaws in the rationing and ease the minds of some of Fayette County's farmers today came to light through the activities of Warren Williams, the county's representative to the Ohio General Assembly and Clarence J. Brown, who represents this, the seventh, Ohio district in the national congress.

Williams, who was the moving spirit in an attempt to get reconsideration of some of the most drastic reductions in requirements in the Certificates of War Necessity, made an appeal to Cong. Brown who carried the protest direct to William N. Jeffers, the rubber administrator. Shortly after that conference, Williams said, the order came through from the nation's capital assuring farmers they could get all the gasoline they needed for "essential needs." What part the efforts of Williams and Cong. Brown played in ironing out the difficulties, however, remains conjectural, but the impression persists that the protests from Fayette County at least added weight to those from other parts of the country.

MRS. AGNES DICKINSON MAY SOON GET PAROLE

MARYSVILLE, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A parole will be recommended for Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson, former Columbus attorney, serving a one to 10-year term for embezzlement, it was said today by Supt. Marguerite Reilly of the Ohio Women's Reformatory. Mrs. Dickinson is seriously ill, Mrs. Reilly added.

STATE BUYS WAR BONDS

JAPS EXPECTED TO COME BACK TO SOLOMONS

Dire Predicament of Force
On Guadalcanal Demands
Some Sort of Relief

EFFORTS PROVING COSTLY

Naval Battles with American Forces Have Previously
Ended in Disaster

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Expected Japanese desperation drives to bolster waning forces on Guadalcanal presaged today further American naval battles which already have turned the waters of the Solomons into a growing graveyard of Japanese ships, troops and arms.

Belief that enemy forces on the beleaguered island are running short of supplies and that they will try again to land reinforcements and armament for their beleaguered troops was expressed yesterday by Secretary of Navy Knox.

The only safe theory, he told a press conference, is that they will return with ships and men as long as they can. Meanwhile, he added, American troops which seized the prized airfield early in August, are expanding and "taking in more territory."

By official count at least 51 enemy ships lay at the bottom of waters around the Solomons. Eighty more, the navy estimates, have been damaged and some probably sunk. Twenty-five American vessels have been destroyed and several damaged.

Meanwhile, the Japanese apparently found that similar efforts to reinforce their trapped troops in the Buna-Gona area of New Guinea to the west were costing too many ships.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian headquarters reported today (Australian time) that the Mikado's aircraft has "resorted to supply dropping by parachute in an effort to relieve his beleaguered garrison."

More than 400 Japanese dead in addition to 40 believed drowned in the sinking of two barges were counted as the Allied spearhead fought its way to the coast near Gona and then turned toward Buna.

Latest reports of the Guadalcanal situation disclosed that since Sunday night's naval battle when the Japanese lost nine ships, the fighting has been confined to minor patrol operations.

TAVERN 'BUNCHING' IS TO BE REMEDIED

Shortage of Liquor To Bring Modified Prohibition

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The State Board of Liquor Control favors distribution of beer permits on a population basis and restrictions against "bunching" of taverns.

The board yesterday approved recommendations of a Cleveland welfare federation committee that Ohio's liquor control act be amended to include such provisions.

Chairman Harry E. Hawley said the board would recommend the proposals to Liquor Director Jacob E. Taylor along with the committee's suggestion that a "readable" leaflet emphasizing moderation be distributed with liquor sold at state stores.

The committee also suggested a reduction of liquor establishments, Mr. Hawley commented that the state had "frozen" the number of liquor permits issued and that gasoline rationing would further curtail outlets.

At Columbus Fred J. Bing, assistant superintendent of stores and agencies, declared a shortage of cheap liquor gradually would grow more acute, bringing about a modified form of prohibition.

U. S. PRODUCTION UP TO COMBINED OUTPUT OF AXIS

Army Chief of Staff Warns
That War Cannot be Won
With 'Shoestring' Force

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The United States now is producing the engines of war in a volume equal to the combined combat armaments production of the Axis powers, the American people were informed today by Donald M. Nelson, War Production Board chief.

Speaking at the closing meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers last night, Nelson reported also that the total output of combat armaments produced by the United Nations is twice that of their enemies.

He made it clear, however, that the striving for increased production is not over. By the end of 1943, he predicted, America alone will produce almost as great a volume of combat armaments as all the rest of the world combined, and its production will be "nearly twice as large as that of the Axis."

By then, total United Nations production "will be nearly three to one ahead of Axis production," Nelson said.

Henry J. Kaiser, west coast ship building wizard, told the industrialists "that preparation for our life after the war" should begin at once.

He said that industrialists

FLOUR PRODUCTION SLOWED BY CEILING

Millers Complain They Are Unable To Make Profit

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The nation's flour trade was at a virtual standstill today while millers and government officials endeavored to find a way out of a unique predicament brought on by the ceiling on prices and a rising wheat market.

The crisis was precipitated by Thursday's ruling by the office of price administration extending without change the flour price ceilings which have been in effect since Oct. 3.

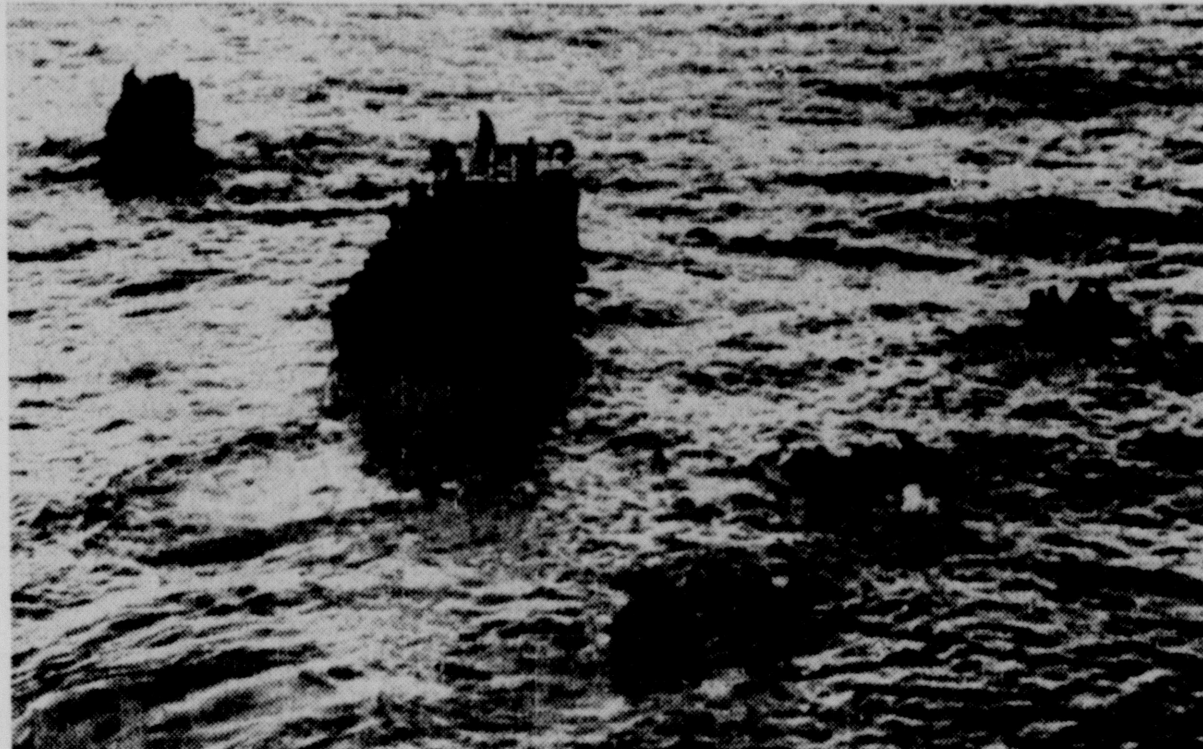

Many mills complained that as a result of recent wheat price gains they were unable to buy grain at prices low enough to justify their doing business under the flour ceilings. They had expected the OPA to permit a moderate advance to relieve this situation.

English Refugee Children Do All Right in America

CANTON, (AP)—Life in America seems to agree with the English children brought here by the Hoover Co. of North Canton, 28 months ago to escape Nazi aerial bombings and other hardships of war in their homeland.

Seventy-four of the 81 evacuees attended a Thanksgiving party with their foster parents and their families, a feature being a contest to determine how the children had fared during their stay here.

Charts in an anteroom of the hotel ballroom where the party was held showed the weight and

The top picture released by the Navy shows the U. S. transport Edward Rutledge at the moment she was hit by an enemy torpedo off the coast of Africa. The photo was taken from the deck of the transport Hugh L. Scott, which had been torpedoed only a few minutes before. Both vessels were lost. Three other transports, one destroyer and one tanker were damaged during the operations.

The dramatic picture, at bottom, taken by an official U. S. Navy cameraman, shows the rescue of survivors from one of the five U. S. transports lost during the occupation of North Africa by the American forces. Some of them are kept afloat by life jackets, while others are in rafts as landing barges and other craft pick them out of the water. The transports sunk were the Tasker H. Bliss, the Hugh L. Scott and the Edward Rutledge, sunk off Casablanca; the Joseph Hawes, sunk off Rabat, and the Leedstown, sunk off Algiers.

Food and Manpower Control Up to Wickard and McNutt

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Agriculture Secretary Wickard and War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt were expected today to be assigned two of the nation's toughest jobs—complete wartime control over all food and manpower problems ranging from rationing to recruiting.

To curb the contagious spread of a score of internal difficulties which have sprung from the pair of problems, President Roosevelt was reported ready to sign executive orders naming Wickard food administrator and transferring control of the Selective Service and Federal Employment Service to the War Manpower Commission headed by McNutt.

The President plans to place Wickard in charge of the nation's wartime food production and empower him to rule on what to ration and when, these sources said.

To make McNutt's manpower more workable, Mr. Roosevelt may even ban voluntary enlistments in the armed forces, they added, pointing out that there have been many complaints over the loss of key defense workers through the recruiting system.

But whether or not they were banned, the silver-haired Hoosier would be able to manipulate both civilian and potential military manpower, aided by a ready-made nerve system. With his manpower commission and the Selective Service set-up, plus the employment service network, he could control the nation's entire personnel from his post.

Under provisions of the second war powers act, he could direct the flow of essential industrial and agricultural workers into the uniformed ranks, prevent at least some labor "pirating" and handle placements in war plants.

The President was reported to have abandoned a previous plan to give the manpower job to Interior Secretary Harold I. Ickes, along with labor department control. A subsequent plan to put Economic Director James F. Byrnes in charge was said to have been punctured by the stabilization chief who thought it would conflict with his current tasks.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER WORRY MINIMIZED

AKRON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Chairman John W. Thomas of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. today announced a process for mixing synthetic rubber with available machinery which he said would be passed along to the rest of the industry. It had been feared that new machinery would be ended for the work.

MILK PRICE INCREASED TO ASSURE SUPPLIES

CINCINNATI, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration ordered the retail price of milk increased in Middletown today from 14 to 15 cents a quart and wholesale charges raised from 12 to 12½ cents.

The OPA said increases were ordered to prevent too great a diversion of milk from Middletown to higher price markets here and in Dayton.

SECOND DIVORCE SUIT FACED BY JACKIE COOGAN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Jackie Coogan's second marriage is on the rocks, too.

The former juvenile screen star, now in the Army, whose first marriage with Actress Betty Grable was unsuccessful, was named yesterday in a divorce suit by the former Flower Parry, dancer.

She charged cruelty and asked $131.50 monthly support for their eight-month-old son, John Anthony.

Jap Dream Being Blasted As Yank Subs and Bombers Keep Sending Ships Down

By GLENN BABB

When Japan's dream of a great maritime empire lies in ruins a major share of the credit will go to the United States submarine and air fleets which almost certainly are destroying her merchant marine faster than she can replace losses. Only infrequently do the submarines make the headlines, but they are contributing mightily to the oriental enemy's eventual downfall.

The curtain of secrecy was pulled aside the other day to allow a brief, heartening glimpse when Lieut. Com. T. B. Klakring turned up at Honolulu with his sub's log showing eight Japanese ships sunk and four more damaged, most of them within sight of major Japanese ports. He told of lying so close offshore that it was possible to watch a horse race meeting.

Klakring of course could not say exactly where this was, but unless this writer's recollections of 15 years' residence in that vicinity are at fault those races could have been on the Negishi course, about 1,000 yards from the waterfront just around a headland from the great port of Yokohama.

TAFT TO BACK OHIO GOVERNOR FOR PRESIDENT

State's Senior Senator Is To Step Aside for Bricker,
Journal Reports

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati "will step aside in 1944" and endorse Gov. John W. Bricker as Ohio's favorite son candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, the Ohio State Journal said today.

The state's senior senator, twice a favorite son and a leading candidate at the 1940 Republican convention in Philadelphia, will announce his support for Bricker "within the next few days," the newspaper asserted.

Bricker, who begins his third term Jan. 4, is expected to state his willingness to accept the favorite son role shortly after receiving Taft's endorsement, the Journal added.

The Bricker boom for president gained impetus after he became the first Republican ever elected to three consecutive terms as governor, but Taft and Ohio's junior senator, Harold H. Burton of Cleveland also have been mentioned as presidential timbers.

The Journal commented, however, that "Taft's withdrawal is expected to clear the Ohio field for Bricker."

WAAC GOES AWOL TO DO STRIP TEASE

Mother Is Not Surprised by Former Chorus Girl

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. J. W. Rawls, mother of Kathryn Gregory, the wandering WAAC, said today her daughter always has "liked a change."

Mrs. Rawls explained she wasn't a bit surprised when the former chorus girl found the WAAC dull and went A.W.O.L. from Fort Des Moines to strip tease in a Des Moines theater.

It was Mrs. Rawls who told military police where to look. James A. Stretch, third officer in the commander's office of the WAAC's, wrote her and asked if she knew where her daughter was. She did—for Kathryn had written to say she had discarded her uniform, at least temporarily.

"I knew she was in the show about a week before they picked her up," Mrs. Rawls said. "But Kathryn is a good, hard-working girl and always has been."

At Fort Des Moines Col. J. A. Hoag, post commandant, declared "she was just a girl who had no understanding of her responsibilities. The matter will be handled inside our own group."

American paratroopers and French troops were reported to have routed a German armored column, seized 100 prisoners and captured a town in central Tunisia today, while in the north, fierce battles momentarily shifting in favor of the Axis raged on the outer rim of the Tunis-Bizerte zone.

In England, Prime Minister Churchill said the struggle for the French North African colony was approaching its tensest phase and warned of "very

"The hard core of Nazi resistance and villainy has not yet been broken in upon," he said.

"I do not doubt the result, but I cannot lead you to suppose it will be easily achieved."

A Reuters (British News Agency) dispatch from North Africa said it "seemed clear" that the Germans, in a surprise show of strength, had driven back Lieut.-Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British 1st army and retaken the key towns of Tebourba and Mateur.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio, however, said that "the outcome of the great tank battle which has been raging for the last 48 hours in the Tebourba area is still in doubt."

A Berlin broadcast, quoting authoritative Nazi quarters, subsequently asserted that both Tebourba and Djedeida, 12 miles west of Tunis, had been recaptured by German troops and that 1,000 Allied prisoners were taken.

Other reports said American and British troops were still clinging to the western edge of Djedeida under pressure by counterattacking Nazi armored forces.

Tebourba lies 20 miles west of Tunis, the capital, and 35 miles south of the big Bizerte naval base. Mateur is 25 miles south of Bizerte.

A broadcast from American-occupied Morocco said "the large part" of 50 Axis tanks thrown into a counterattack in the Tebourba sector had been destroyed or wrecked. Berlin claimed 40 Allied tanks were knocked out of action.

ARGENTINA'S HEAT ON GERMAN EMBASSY

Espionage Activities May Lead to Trials

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Evidence which Federal Judge Miguel Jantus said proved that members of the German embassy staff were involved in espionage activities in Argentina was sent to the supreme court today to determine whether the Reich diplomats can be brought to trial.

Judge Jantus' action climaxed an investigation touched off more than two months ago when United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles asserted in a speech in Boston that both Argentina and Chile were being used as bases of operation by a Nazi spy ring.

For The Farmers

of Fayette County

COUNTY'S CORN ACREAGE GREATLY INCREASED

NEW ALLOTMENT FOR COUNTY IS
63,139 ACRESGoals To Shoot at Are Set in the AAA
Allotments

Instead of being "restricted" by the AAA program for the coming year, farmers in this community are going to have some high marks to shoot at in the face of reduced labor on the farm.

For instance the corn acreage allotment in the county has been increased 8,888 acres above this year's allotment, or from 54,251 to 63,139 acres, and farmers, to comply with the AAA requirements, must have at least 90 percent of the increased allotment.

The increase is over 15 percent, and it will require a real effort on the part of many farmers to comply with the new order.

While 90 percent of the allotment for each farmer is necessary, no part of it can be made up with soybeans or other substitute under present plans. Soybeans may be substituted for wheat acreage, however, under the AAA set-up.

It is pointed out by Harry Silcott, chairman of the Fayette County AAA that certain restrictions were necessary a number of years ago, but the acreage has been pushed upward until it will require real effort on the part of most farmers to meet the increased demands for greater production.

In the corn belt generally the acreage allotment for commercial corn planting was advanced five percent for the coming year, in an effort to obtain adequate livestock feed for 1943 and 1944.

Ohio's 1942 allotment of 2,538,739 acres was increased to 2,769,950. The national corn planting goal is 95,000,000 acres. Ohio's farmers, who shattered many production records this year, were given other new marks to shoot at in addition to corn.

Elmer F. Kruse, chairman of the Ohio Agricultural War Board, announced 1943 "food for victory" goals calling for increased output of 13 products, reducing wheat, tame hay, oats, soybeans and rye acreage and maintaining sugar beet production at its present level of 52,700 acres.

New marks were set for hogs, cattle, sheep, milk, eggs, chickens, turkeys, corn, barley, Irish potatoes, commercial truck crops and tobacco. Kruse announced the goals followed a conference between Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard and war board representatives from 10 states at Chicago.

"Ohio's food plants, like those in other states, are handicapped by labor shortage and lack of machinery," Kruse asserted. "But the board is confident that the state's farmers will reach their goals and in some cases exceed them."

"Toughest problem of all is faced by dairy farmers. Their labor problem has been growing more acute all summer. Many farmers, lacking the necessary help to continue operations on their customary scale, marketed large numbers of dairy cattle for slaughter in the last three months."

Goals for 1943 and estimated 1942 production:

Sows to farrow—994,000 and 884,000 in 1942; cattle and calves for slaughter—1,068,000 and 973,000; sheep and lambs for slaughter—1,135,000 and 1,055,000; milk—5,160,000,000 and 5,106,000,000 pounds; Eggs—22,797,000 and 210,186,000 dozens; hens and pull-

On the Farm
By Thomas E. Berry

STRIPPING THE BARN—If the barn needs stripping, a good time to do it is some day after you get the corn in the crib and the fodder in the mow. I learned this week. Since the shredding will not be done until late in the season this year, and there is so much delay on account of the rainy weather, this might be a good job to work at between showers. A warm barn saves feed and is a very important factor in holding down the cost of production of livestock farm products.

You can overdo this with chickens though, especially if the building is too tight, and there is no adequate way to ventilate it. One of the most successful poultrymen I have ever known, keeps the south side of hen house open with nothing but poultry wire over an opening about three feet wide and as long as his building, except when the temperature is very low, when he covers it with burlap, kept rolled up on a pole at the top of the opening for this purpose.

"The combs of well fed, healthy hens will freeze, when the weather is cold if the building is not well ventilated," I have often heard him say, "but they rarely ever freeze, when the house is open as mine is," he pointed out.

He qualified his statement by saying that you had to be "Up on your toes" and using a lot of common sense, to make a go of the chicken business, and even then you'd have some "grief" at times.

He recommended warm buildings but well ventilated ones as one means of preventing this "grief," as he expressed it.

"YOU TAKE WHAT YOU CAN GET."—That's a fine way a very successful farmer just described his farm labor. "And you pay what is asked, if you can afford it at all," he added, "and about the time you get a man well trained, and of some value to you, he gets dissatisfied and goes into some other work," he said.

This man, like most farmers

LIVE TREE SELLERS
MUST PLAY SAFE

Attention of dealers in Christmas trees is called to the provisions of the Ohio Plant Pest Law which requires that all growers of evergreens obtain a certificate, if live trees are sold.

Growers who sell evergreens with roots are obliged to secure nursery inspection certificate coverage for each place of business where such trees are sold or offered for sale. Dealers handling Christmas trees, who do not grow such stock but who do buy and sell same are liable for dealer certificate coverage for each separate place of business so operated.

Inspection service for growers of nursery stock may be had on application to the Division of Plant Industry of the Ohio Department of Agriculture. The cost for nursery inspection certification for growers is $20 plus 25 cents per acre.

'Choppy' Future Is Foreseen
For Livestock Producers

Although the cattle market is viewed as having a healthy undertone and the hog market the "butt of bear raids," Frank DeWitt, veteran market analyst and stock buyer here, foresees a "choppy" future for the producers of livestock.

DeWitt, in the following article in which the opinions expressed are his own and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Record-Herald, points out that wartime demand, coupled with government purchases, are responsible for the current high prices and warns that any rush to market with meat animals will depress prices.

By FRANK DEWITT

Livestock trade is entering several new phases. Finished long fed high cost cattle are scheduled to pass out of the picture; a huge crop of young hogs is gathering volume on market routes and when new crop lambs are ready more ovine product will be available.

At the moment every branch of the trade is in a maze of confusion. The cattle market has a healthy undertone, hog trade is the butt of bear raids and only acute scarcity makes the present lamb market possible.

Minus Uncle Sam's mazuma everything vended at the stock yards would be several dollars per cwt. lower.

Meat rationing, optional to date, nears the mandate stage, when the 2½ lbs. weekly will be gradually shaved, provided the buyer can get it which is not possible in many sections remote from production areas now. Especially on

SUPPLIES OF WHEAT
HIT RECORD LEVEL

World Production This Year
Above Average

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that world production of wheat this year was above average and that supplies were at record level.

It estimated production, exclusive of Russia and China, for which figures were unavailable, at 3,980,000,000 bushels, or about 230,000,000 bushels more than was reported last year.

Production for the same areas averaged 3,915,000,000 bushels during the 1931-40 period.

The department said "with the present large world stocks added to the new crop, the world carry-over at the end of the current marketing year will be so large that even if it were possible to resume world shipping and increase consumption from present low levels, such reduction as might take place would still leave an unusually large supply in the 1943-44 marketing year."

The United States crop has been estimated at 984,000,000 bushels, or 38,000,000 bushels above last year.

the Atlantic sea board is the pinch of scarcity felt; coolers are bare, the daily supply goes into the capacious, unsatisfied consumers before the break of day at New York, Boston and Philadelphia and the constant cry is for more. This should convince Down Easterns how dependent they are on the West for subsistence, and they should keep their council on all rationings in the corn belts. But for the corn belt, meat would be as scarce with them as it is in German dominated Europe.

As long as the ones in control at Washington, continue to show their lack of appreciation and conception of the many problems that are confronting the people of the corn belt—now that we are engaged in the prosecution of the greatest war of all time—continued created shortages can be expected and the statement "too little and too late" will be repeated many times over.

The market will be choppy all winter; up on short runs, down when killers get more than they can kill on the day of arrival. Present hog prices are not bad, provided they can be maintained around present levels.

Whatever feeders do, during the coming winter they should avoid flooding the market and pursue that policy constantly. Temporarily over-loaded markets mean lower prices for which packers cannot be blamed. Every branch of the market is on a high level, which justifies predictions of sudden and violent price swings.

Teele's Hatchery To Hatch
300,000 Eggs During
Coming Season

F. E. Bottenfield, manager of Teele's Certified Hatchery, on East Street, said Saturday that plans for the coming year are to increase the number of eggs hatched by 100,000, as the hatchery's contribution to the demand for more poultry during 1943.

During the past season, Bottenfield said, around 200,000 eggs passed through the big hatchery and chicks were sold over a wide radius.

This year 300,000 eggs will be set and it is expected the increased demand will take every chick as soon as they are ready for market.

Ohio State Eager and Show Ability

Fayette County farmers, whose experiences with what they broadly term "hillbills" as tenants and farm hands, has made them skeptical of the government's plan to solve the farm labor problem by training Kentucky mountaineers and placing them on more productive land, may one day change their minds and be glad to have their help, if the first experiment along this line is any criterion for the entire program.

The first group of them came to Ohio State University in Columbus about 10 days ago to study farming in the modern manner. They learned so quickly that nearly half of them already have been hired to work on high-production, machine-operated farms—the like of which they never saw before.

They learned so quickly, in fact, that directors of a government-sponsored experiment seeking a solution to the farm labor shortage declared this first trial "an entire success," and said they believed the plan "could be work-

RATIONING OF MEAT
WON'T HURT FARMERS

They Are Permitted by OPA
To Butcher for Own Use

Farmers of Fayette County, whose chief business is the breeding and fattening for market of livestock, will be sitting in the king row when meat rationing goes into effect.

A memorandum from the Office of Price Administration just released by the Rationing Board here says that farmers who slaughter animals for their own use are exempt from the restrictions. If they get hungry, they can go out to the feedlot and knock off a pork chop or a beefsteak while their city cousins look on with envy—or come out to the farm for dinner.

But, the farmers are restricted in the delivery of meat to civilians so there will be enough for the fighting forces and America's allies. The country butcher must keep a record just like the big packing houses. This also includes the custom butcher, whether he be a farmer or operator of a sideline slaughter house.

Animals covered by the OPA order are cattle, calves, sheep, lambs and hogs. Most farmers in Fayette County butcher hogs for their own use, but few, in normal times, butcher cattle or sheep. However, the prospect of meat rationing and the increased use of cold storage lockers is expected to change this considerably.

When December first rolls around there are a few things the good shepherd attends to which will help to insure his success for the coming year. The pasture is now gone. One cannot expect the ewes to gather their living any longer from the fields. They must be fed. The barn that is to be their winter quarters should be well bedded with straw, shredded fodder or bean straw. The hay racks which have been repaired weeks ago should now be filled with good legume hay—just what they will eat readily. On bad days the ewes should not be turned out but on bright

★The NATION NEEDS EGGS★

How Can We Do It?

FEED THE FEED - - -

THAT FITS YOUR NEED!

The Army needs eggs. We must produce more for ourselves and our Allies. Grain feeding alone is not enough. Poor feeds will not make eggs. What can we do about it?

There is a feed for every condition. Read the following programs and pick out the one that meets your needs.

For those who have an abundant supply of grain: 32% POULTRY SUPPLEMENT, one hundred pounds mixed with a ground grain mixture of 65 lbs. of yellow corn, 35 lbs. of wheat and 25 lbs. of oats or other suitable ground grain mixture. Feed this mash mixture at the rate of one part to one part of SUPER COARSE SCRATCH or other suitable whole grain mixture. Other grain mixtures may be used if desired.

For those who desire the cafeteria method of feeding: 32% POULTRY SUPPLEMENT to be fed free choice with grain mixture. Care should be exercised in using this program; if for any reason the birds should consume too much of either mash or grain to keep in balance, hand feeding should be practiced until adjusted. Birds should be started on cafeteria or free choice feeding during the growing period. Never attempt to change to this method during the production period.

For those who desire a low priced feed or those feeding on range where sunlight gives Vitamin D, 20% MARKET LAYING MASH may be fed with skim milk, if available.

20% SUPER LAYING MASH WITH ALFALFA may be fed.

For further information, please feel free to come in and consult us.

Annual Football and Band Banquet Next Thursday

The 1942 WHS Blue Lion football team that won eight out of nine games and the South Central League championship will be banqueted for the last time next Thursday evening in the high school gymnasium.

Sharing the honors with the grid squad will be the coaches, Jerry Kissell and his assistant, George Miraben, and the band, which not only put on a brilliant show for the football crowds between halves but, on the team's record, was something of a good luck charm. The only game the Lions lost all season was the one at Chillicothe (7 to 0) when the band was left behind. Taking the field to put on its musical and marching extravaganza under the direction of Paul E. Fitzwater at every other game the Lions played, whether at home or abroad, the band never was disappointed in the score. Although the football squad has been entertained by the Lions Club, the Rotary Club and, with their dads, by H. Condon Campbell, a member of the school board, these functions, of necessity, have been more or less limited to club membership and special invitation. Next Thursday night's affair, however, is one for all the fans. It is sponsored by the WHS athletic department and has been opened to the public. Inasmuch as the school budget does not provide for such entertainments, the expenses have to be financed on what is commonly known as the "Dutch treat" basis—that is every banqueter, with the exception of the honor guests, pays a proportionate share through the purchase of a ticket for 75 cents. All members of the band and football squad have the tickets and they also are available at Campbell's Restaurant.

In order that preparations may be made for "the best banquet ever held," the committee should know in advance how many will be seated at the tables. Principal W. F. Rettig said. The deadline, he added, has been set for noon Monday. A program has been arranged with John B. Van Why of the athletic department of Wittenberg College, Springfield, as the guest speaker. Although the committee has not been told what his subject will be, assurance was given that "he will give his audience an outstanding talk."

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—There isn't much point in criticizing the New York State Athletic Commission, as that august body has been worked over pretty thoroughly by expert critics, but its handling of the lightweight title situation was nothing less than noteworthy. . . . At any rate, you can expect Beau Jack or Tippy Larkin to trip over his long, gray beard some day when he's told that the 13-man elimination finally has ended and he's due to defend his championship against the survivor.

One-Minute Sports Page

Boston College almost failed to get that invitation to the Orange Bowl, but not because of the Holy Cross debacle. . . . While John P. Curley, B. C., athletic director, was patiently listening for the telephone bell, the call from Florida was routed to the office of Eleanor Mosely, publicity director at Boston University.

Today's Guest Star

L. H. Gregory, Portland Oregonian. "Arnold Scott, Montana halfback stands second in the nation of football kickoff returns. We'll say for him that he couldn't be on a better team to make such a record: That's what Montana has done most of in football this year—return kickoffs."

A Suite Reception

Scribes returning from the Chicago baseball meeting tell about a prominent baseball man who strolled into his favorite hotel, now taken over by the army, and asked if his reservation had been received. . . . "May-be so, brother, I don't know," replied the soldier behind the desk. "All I know is you've got to enlist to get in this place nowadays."

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Howard Sanders of Middletown, O., rolled 780 for third place in sweepstakes as crack keggers warmed up for today's opening of the nine-day all-star bowling tournament. Joe Krupa, of Cleveland, with 833, was first.

Five Main Ingredients For Championship Team

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Coach Frank Thomas of Alabama, who has turned out several bowl teams, says the prescription for a championship football club calls for five ingredients, namely:

1. Material. 2. Coaching and leadership—that is, someone who can get the best effort out of the boys. 3. A well-arranged schedule, with not too many tough games in a row. 4. Luck in avoiding injuries. 5. Breaks in officiating.

"Absence of any of these factors can spoil an otherwise championship season," opines Thomas. "And a fellow has to be lucky to have 'em all at once."

Two Boys by Same Name On Basketball Squad

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Here's a new puzzler for basketball fans. There are two candidates for freshmen basketball at Michigan State College with identical names, Joe L. Bales. Coach Ben Van Alstyne has his answer. He calls one "Big Joe" and the other "Little Joe." They are cousins.

Another Irish Leahy

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (AP)—Jack Leahy, Jr., of Casper, Wyo., is a sophomore candidate on the Notre Dame basketball roster this season. He is a nephew of Frank Leahy, Irish director of athletics. Since he weighs only 165 pounds, young Leahy passed up a football career.

Member of Congress, 7th Ohio District

The preliminary examination for the selection of a principal and alternates to represent the Seventh District in the competitive entrance examination for the United States Military Academy at West Point, as well as principal and alternates to represent the district in a similar examination to entrance to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, will be held at the Wilmington High School at Wilmington, Ohio on Monday, January 4, 1943 beginning at ten A. M., under the direction of Superintendent Harry W. Hodson. The examinations will be open to all properly qualified young men who are residents of the Seventh Congressional District. Complete and detailed information regarding these examinations can be obtained by writing Congressman Clarence J. Brown, 1406 House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Gasoline rationing on a nationwide basis became effective December 1, despite the strong opposition of many citizens and congressional demands for a ninety day postponement of the rationing order to permit a further study of the problem. The House committee on interstate and foreign commerce, which has been studying oil conservation for several years, and has been investigating the rubber shortage for the past several months, was again in session for several days last week hearing testimony of those favoring and opposing nationwide gasoline rationing. Many witnesses were opposed to any gasoline rationing whatsoever in states where a plentiful supply of the motor fuel is available. Others contended that the gasoline rationing restrictions are more stringent than necessary for the conservation of rubber, and will seriously interfere with agricultural and industrial production. Some testimony was presented which indicated that the rubber shortage is not as serious as first believed. However, most of the witnesses from the various governmental departments and bureaus, including William Jeffers, the Rubber Czar, insisted that nationwide gasoline rationing is necessary to conserve the rubber in automobile and truck tires of the nation. A complete and fully detailed report of all of the various rubber supplies and reserves of the nation have not yet been furnished to the Committee, and no definite decision can be reached by the committee until such information is made available.

In the meantime thousands of complaints regarding gasoline rationing are being received in congressional offices. Many of these complaints are coming from the owners and operators of farm trucks, for which it is now required that certificates of war necessity be obtained, in connection with which the Office of Defense Transportation fixes the annual mileage such trucks may travel. Some of the mileage allowances granted to farm truck operators have been so small as to be ridiculous. One instance, wherein a farmer operating more than five hundred acres of land and feeding over five hundred head of livestock, with truck tires good for more than fifteen thousand miles of travel, was allowed but 717 miles of truck travel per year, (which would mean that his tires would last for at least 21 years, if they did not rot out before that time), was called to the attention of Rubber Administrator Jeffers when he was before the interstate and foreign commerce committee. As a result the Rubber Czar has issued instructions to the Office of Defense Transportation to liberalize the mileage allowances given farm trucks, and all farmers who have received mileage allowances they believe will interfere with the proper operation of their farms are advised to request a reconsideration of their original applications. Many objections to gasoline rationing could be eliminated by the use of a little common sense in administering the order. There should be no waste of rubber during the present shortage, but neither should rubber conservation be carried to such a point as to seriously interfere with the agricultural and industrial production of the country.

It now appears rather certain that President Roosevelt will not be given the authority to set aside tariff and immigration laws as he has requested. The ways and means committee of the House flatly turned thumbs down on the bill originally submitted for such a purpose. A much limited substitute bill has now been presented to the committee, but even that measure faces considerable opposition. Any bill of such a nature will be fought on the floor of congress by many members who point out that the President now has the power to set aside tariff restrictions and duties on all imports necessary to the war effort. They contend that the real import of the suggested legislation is to set aside the immigration laws and that this is no time to let down the bars to permit the entrance of large numbers of foreigners into this country.

Joost Traded By Reds For New Shortstop

By DAVE HOFF

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The minor leagues' quick job of polishing off their business in one sitting brought the major-minor baseball party to quick close yesterday and permitted virtually all of the various league officials and managers to start home. The minors almost accomplished more in one session than the majors had managed to do in the preceding three days, but the boys from the big show threw in one parting salvo before they beat a hasty retreat.

Any question that may have been in the mind of any American citizen as to President Roosevelt's plans for the post-war period should have been dispelled by his recent statements on that subject. In answer to questions submitted to him at a press conference last week, the President very emphatically announced that it would be his purpose, and that of his administration, to feed and finance the war-torn countries, and to rehabilitate and re-establish their industries, trade, and governmental structures. He also stated it would be his policy to furnish funds needed for the development and modernization of Central and South American countries and other undeveloped sections of the earth. The President will soon make a fireside chat to further inform the people as to his plans in the international field when peace comes.

Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, telephoned a railroad station in time to catch president Robert Quinn of the Boston Braves. By telephone they agreed that Quinn should give up Eddie Miller, the most prized shortstop in the National League for the last few seasons, in return for Eddie Joost, Nate Andrews and a fair bundle of Cincinnati cash. The minors voted for a plan freezing territories of leagues forced to suspend during the war.

gether in the face of an enemy slashing at her shipping under, on and above the seas. But while Britain is succeeding, with the help of the United States, it is doubtful whether Japan has the resources or the ability to succeed.

Let's look at some figures. Japan is believed to have entered the Pacific war with about 6,000,000 tons of merchant shipping. The Japanese picked up a few score thousand more tons in Oriental ports but not enough to change the total materially.

Now announcements of the American armed forces indicate that during the first year of the Pacific war Japan has lost nearly 250 noncombatant vessels, freighters, tankers, transports, supply ships of all kinds. Nearly 150 of these are credited to submarines. Assuming that these ships averaged 5,000 tons, which seems conservative, they represent a loss of 1,250,000 tons, probably 20 percent of the entire merchant fleet.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Jawed Johnny Revolva of Evanston, Ill., one of golf's best front-runners, headed into the final two rounds of the $5,000 Miami open tournament today with a two stroke lead and no worries about the field breathing on his neck.

"Somebody is going to win, so it doesn't make any difference to me whether I'm behind or ahead," he declared after wrestling the top spot from Ben Loving of Springfield, Mass., with a five-under-par 65 in the second round.

"But I've set my heart on winning this one," he added. Revolva sank a 40-foot approach shot on the 18th for the 65 which gave him a 36-hole score of 135.

In second place was Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia, who had to work hard for the par 70 which gave him a half-way 137.

In a tie for third were Loving and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark. with 137's.

1942 Football Season Had Its 'Fizzles' Too

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—For nearly every football team which provided a pleasant surprise for its followers this fall there was one which was a disappointment, it was indicated in results of an Associated Press poll.

No less than 24 teams were listed in the "most improved" class, the improvement being based either on their performance in comparison with their expected showings or their steady improvement during the season. Twenty-one elevens were on the "most disappointing" list.

70-Point Offense Is Unleashed by Purple Raiders

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Mount Union's Purple Raiders displayed a scintillating offense last night as they ran up 70 points in downing the Findlay College basketball team, 70 to 52, in an Ohio Conference contest.

The game, played at Alliance, was the feature of the evening's four-game program involving Ohio colleges.

At Niagara, N. Y., Baldwin Wallace of Berea dropped a 34-57 decision to Niagara College.

A freshman center, Leroy Thomas, was the high scorer as Otterbein College opened its season at Westerville with a 62-29 victory over Cedarville College. Thomas made 14 points.

Another freshman, forward Al Pflug, rang up 18 points for individual scoring honors as Marietta College pasted a 50-40 setback on Rio Grande at Marietta.

Henry Armstrong Kayoes Jenkins

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, the tireless little Negro boxer from Los Angeles who once held three titles and now is trying to win back one of them, knocked ex-lightweight champion Lew Jenkins out of his way last night.

Henry punched the Sweetwater, Tex., boy to the canvas eight times before Referee Tom Louttit stopped the one-sided fray and awarded Armstrong a technical knockout in the eighth round.

Jenkins weighed 143 1-2 and Armstrong 144.

Great Lakes Grid Star Also Is Top Bowler

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—Now that the football season is over, John Popov, halfback on the great Lakes Naval Training Station football team, is the leading bowler at the base. Popov averaged 197 in a Cincinnati league last year. He played football for the University of Cincinnati.

Buy War Bonds and Stamps.

Among widely-known teams in the most improved class were Wisconsin, Illinois, Georgia Tech, U. C. L. A., Washington State, Tennessee, Baylor, Tulsa, Navy, William and Mary, Auburn, Iowa and Boston College.

Teams which, according to the voters, could be termed disappointments for one reason or another were Northwestern, Vanderbilt, Nebraska, Pitt, California, Oregon State, Penn, Princeton and Duke.

A few, such as Minnesota, Cornell, Texas and Missouri, disappointed some of their fans but it was pointed out that they did as well as might be expected under their circumstances.

Coaches were not overlooked in noting a team's improvement. This was particularly true in the cases of Illinois and Wisconsin, where Ray Elliot and Harry Stuhldreher received ample credit.

In the case of Georgia Tech it was pointed out that Coach Bill Alexander had a "Sleeper," in addition to a sensational freshman named Clint Castleberry.

Aside from such general reasons of loss of players and coaching changes, the critics were somewhat at a loss to explain disappointing showing of different teams.

There were exceptions, naturally. It was pointed out, for instance, that Texas A. & M. failed to get the proper tackle play until too late in the season. In addition to player losses, Northwestern suffered from lack of running attack to balance Otto Graham's fine passing.

TRAINED LEADERSHIP IMPERATIVE

What is done by our government right now with our boys and girls of teen-age is going to have more effect on our future than most of us realize.

It is predicted that we face a long war, and then at least several years to get settled down in our new position of world responsibility. In the war period, we will either be wise or foolish in what we offer to our grown-up children.

This is a war of new weapons based on science, on physics, chemistry, engineering, mathematics, etc. To build machines requires thousands of experts and research workers, and to operate them requires tens of thousands of highly skilled and trained men. We can only discover and train those who can do this job through using our schools, colleges and universities to sift out those who have the willingness, aptitudes and brains to do these jobs well.

The Germans and the Japanese are very terrible opponents because they have selected and trained many thousands of their youth in every field related to war and are still doing so. Great Britain learned in the last war that she must not let those who should be trained in laboratories or libraries be wasted. In every million babies born, it is said there is but one great physicist, and yet this war is going to be won by applying physics to the procedures of war.

A country like ours can succeed only if it follows trained leaders. We have the experience and the places to train them in every state. Certainly with military policy on a basis that recognizes education also, we can sort out and train our boys and girls for the fateful jobs they must meet.

Not only must we retain and train selected students, but we must give them national recognition by uniform or insignia so that they will not be tempted to join the armed services too soon.

It will be stupid to misuse a whole generation of our boys and girls through failure to prepare them wisely. It is easy to get hysterical, to forget the future in the haste of the moment. Have we not the right to ask of our Congress that whatever compulsory measures are passed to use our teen-age boys and girls, that they shall be on a controlled manpower basis that will recognize the imperative necessity of giving them a chance to prove their qualifications for training for special and needed tasks.

Any program which fails to provide for a study of their individual possibilities for advanced training may prove a ghastly mistake.

The Germans used them first, or no civilized nation could have realized their potentiality. But fighting fire with fire, we are using them, today, at least as effectively as are our enemies.

When Japan is beaten and the details of this war become published history, it may develop that American submarines played a major part in bringing victory.

Danger of Increase in Cases of Trichinosis
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I WAS talking to a man the other day who told me he had been to a barbecue and he must have eaten something that disagreed with him because he got "poisoned." He had a fever and his muscles ached and his eyes were red and swollen.
This happened to him on Saturday, one of his busy days, and he said he had to keep on his feet all day.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

though it was tough work. Sunday and Monday he was able to rest and by Tuesday he felt better again.
I would not be at all surprised if this were a case of trichinosis due to eating barbecued meat that had not been entirely cooked. Trichinosis is caused by a microscopic worm, the trichina. This parasite lives especially in pork.
By the methods used in packing houses under Government supervision it is killed by heat in sausages, and in ordinary cooking in kitchens it is killed by the temperature used to cook meat. But in the case of barbecues with open fires, large pieces of meat do not get cooked enough to kill the parasite.

Condition Common
The condition is very common in the United States although most cases go unrecognized, such as that of my friend who had been "poisoned." Statistics show that only three people per 100,000 in North America are pronounced to have trichinosis, but a careful examination of 100 cases in New York City showed that 22 per cent had active or quiescent trichinosis in their muscles.
This is true in almost all parts of the country, as similar examinations in Boston showed 27 per cent, in Baltimore 25 per cent and in Minneapolis 24 per cent of the patients harbored the trichinae. Perhaps in less than one out of 5,000 cases is the diagnosis made.
With the advent of meat rationing in the United States there will be all sorts of bootlegging of meat, in selling the incompletely cured meats and improperly prepared sausages, and I look for a considerable increase in the incidence of trichinosis and warn against eating any sausages or meats unless they have been well cooked.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Constant Reader: I have a friend who now has tuberculosis. Since she has been ill I've been hearing a lot about pneumo, phreno, and thoraco operations. Would you please explain what these terms mean?
Answer: All of these forms of operation are devised to put the lung at rest. They are about the most effective forms of treatment we have for tuberculosis of the lung at the present time.
EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Relieving and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Domestic Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Embattled Love
BY LORENA CARLETON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS
A chance meeting in the San Francisco fog leads to a spur-of-the-moment marriage in Reno by PAIGE SHELTON, whose sweetheart has just been killed fighting for the Allies, and RESTWICK (RUSTY) CARNES III, wealthy descendant of early Hawaiian settlers. Rusty marries to spite the girl he thinks he loves. EUGENIA NORTH, his selfish fiancée.

CHAPTER EIGHT
PAIGE WAS glad when the fog lifted enough for them to sail. They had been delayed an hour as it was. An hour that had thwarted her eagerness to leave their quarters and search for Eugenia. Even though the slightly chinless white and pink face had attracted Paige, it was the bronze sequin-balled hat, that made her certain of her suspicions. Somehow the blond girl had managed to obtain passage on the overcrowded ship.

While they slowly throbbed away from the pier, Rusty leaned lazily on the lanai rail and stared down into the water. Paige also leaned there, silent, her head turned away from Rusty, who, now that their guests had gone, was glumly un-talkative. No longer was he putting on his act of a devoted bridegroom. He still held a glass of champagne in one hand and a cigaret in the other.

Ship's bells sang out their rather mournful, but musical, ding-donging as they slowly eased past the San Francisco wharves and made their way out into the bay and on beneath the magnificent arch of the Golden Gate bridge. San Francisco appeared to be made of layers; its skyline was like an etching of an ancient Old World city.
Quite suddenly Rusty spoke, "Where did you know Gabe?"
After a moment the girl answered, "Oh, in the old home town—Cairo, Ga."

"How strange that he hasn't a trace of a southern accent," Restwick Carnes swung about on his elbow so that he faced her. His eyes were a chilly, calculating asphire blue. "For that matter, neither do you."

The cool smile with which Paige responded was practically a smirk. "Since you specified, at the beginning of our curbsome romance, that you didn't care if I never so much as spoke to you, that you preferred I didn't—suppose you don't, either!" she terminated with spirit and a lack of grammatical structure.

"It simply seems strange that you are so extremely reticent about yourself," His gaze cut into her face as if he hoped to read her past.
"Just because you blab your secret heart, don't expect me to." She turned her head with such fury that her chin dived into the orchid corsage. "May I take this off now?" she inquired acidly.
"Naturally, if they annoy you. But they are not poison, you know." He laughed slightly, then tossed his cigaret into the sea with an almost vicious gesture that betrayed his real mood.

Paige realized he was genuinely irritated. What would he say, she wondered, if she told him Eugenia North was on board? No sooner had the thought struck her than she spoke it aloud. Swiftly and tensely.
"Eugenia is on board."
"Naturally."
"You knew it?"
For the barest moment he enjoyed her astonishment. "I was almost sure of it. I was sure she wouldn't be able to resist the ticket I had delivered to her earlier this morning."
Paige's red lips curled. "Seems you're taking a harem."
Again Restwick Carnes laughed. "You sound just like a wife."
Paige ignored that. "How could you get passage for her so late?"
"It's been my experience that you can do almost anything if you have enough money. But I'm forgetting," he said in self-reproachful mockery, "you don't like people to talk about money."
Paige could tell she was blushing by the feverish feeling of her cheeks. "I still don't see why you wanted her on the ship."
"I'd have rather a difficult time carrying on my campaign of making her miserable if she stayed in San Francisco. Don't be silly!" He lit a fresh cigaret, "I'm going down to the purser's office now and arrange for our table. I want to get near Eugenia so she can't miss a thing."

Paige followed him from the lanai into the bedroom. "I think you are the meanest man I know." She noticed she was trembling just as she had that day in Reno, which was foolish.

"Could be." Unconcerned, Restwick Carnes flipped the tags on a few of the packages. "You'd better go through these things so you'll know whom to thank. After all, you are Mrs. Restwick Carnes."

"A fact I'm beginning to regret more and more."
Rusty's grin scoffed at her. "Well, lunch up here to make Eugenia think we're cooling, but we'll go down to dinner. And I want you to be especially gorgeous." He pulled open the heavy door, then stepped back to say, "If you have some ear ornaments, wear them to call attention to your pretty ears. They're very pretty. Like white tulips."

For an instant after the door had banged Paige just stood there in the center of the floor. Then she walked quickly to the dressing table and peered across dozens of Tallman roses to look at her ears. What a stupid remark! How could an ear possibly look like a tulip?

Instead of opening gifts she too left the suite and went out on deck. They were now even with Alcatraz. From the ship that giant rock did not look so fearsome. Even the water did not appear more turbulent than other parts of the ocean. It was easy to see why criminals made the mistake of thinking they could escape by swimming to the outlying craft of friendly conspirators. Dread currents, that brought men to as sure a doom as a prison death, were hidden.

After 45 minutes she rang for him again. "You'd better bring me some lunch. Tea and sandwiches will be all right."

"For two?" the steward stated, rather than asked.

"For one," corrected Paige.

The steward was back soon. "I'll serve you on the lanai. As soon as you've finished you'd better call me and I'll close the glass doors. It will get cloudy and choppy soon."

It was fairly choppy already. But they had not yet hit that nauseous coast roll that tosses ships between San Francisco and Los Angeles. Not yet were people confined to their beds.
There was a gay party in the adjoining lanai. Although she could not distinguish words, Paige could hear laughter and the tinkle of glasses. She hoped dinner would be gay and noisy, a whirligig to take her thoughts. Rusty's wish for ear ornaments came to her mind again. She must find some suitable for her white-fringed evening gown.

There was a small remaining patch of sunshine. Paige scooted a footstool into its warmth and began an investigation of her purse. She took out the mother-of-pearl compact and cigaret box and delved into the hidden sanctum. Although she was seriously intent on her task, something caused her to glance up. And there was Eugenia, leaning perilously far out over the rail of the adjoining lanai, staring at Paige.

Or rather, not staring at Paige, but at her opened gray purse and its contents.

Word Story - Taxicab

Compiled by WHS English Classes

Taxi! Taxi! cried a well dressed young woman as she hurried from a fashionable dress shop on Fifth Avenue.

When we hear the word taxicab, we think of a passenger-carrying vehicle, usually a motor vehicle, designed to seat five to seven persons, with or without a taximeter, maintained for hire on public thoroughfares.

A century ago the definition would be a carriage that bounces like a goat. You will probably wonder how this occurred. The last part, "cab," is a short form of the French "cabriolet," a "leap or caper," like that of a goat, because it was so light that it bounced along the rough roads of the France of that time just as a goat skips lightly along the ground. To go further back the French borrowed "cabriolet" from the Italian "capriolare," to "caper," which in turn came from Latin "caper" "a he-goat," "capra" "a she-goat."

In recent time when cabriolets became automobiles for hire and bounded along city streets, they had a taximeter attached to register the fare automatically. The word taxi comes from the Latin word "taxare," which means "to estimate or to value."

Therefore taxicab is another interesting example of the fact that words commonly used in English can trace their ancestry back to Latin.

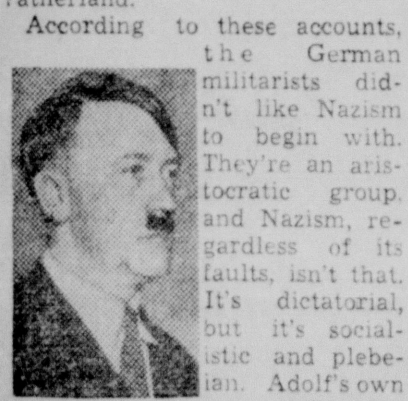

General usage determines whether a word remains current for one generation or many generations.

Coleridge aptly said that more knowledge of value might be gained from the history of a word than from the history of a campaign. The progress of mankind is epitomized in language.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — Fuehrer Hitler's overthrow by Germany's own professional military class is hinted at as a possibility in confidential reports from the Fatherland.

Adolf Hitler

According to these accounts, the German militarists didn't like Nazism to begin with. They're an aristocratic group, and Nazism, regardless of its faults, isn't that. It's dictatorial, but it's socialistic and plebeian. Adolf's own paper - hanging origin - tells the story. He was no hereditary nabob, with a "von" in front of his name, which originally wasn't Hitler, either, but some weird Teutonic monicker like Schickelgruber that even official reference works don't profess to be very sure of.

However, besides being traditionally kaiseristic and nobility-worshipping, the Germans always have had a decidedly racial socio-economic bunch likewise. It's been characteristic of maybe a mass majority of 'em.

Adolf, taking advantage of this sentiment, slid in, in the midst of a fearful national crisis, and the militarists had to make the best of it.

If, having started the war, he'd made satisfactory and reasonably rapid progress toward victory, the military gang would remain in line behind him, unquestionably. In fact, he did succeed in holding 'em in tow while he apparently was making a tolerably good showing.

If he hasn't met with actual reverses now, though, at least his campaign's lagging.

He isn't getting anywhere in Russia. He's in bad shape in North Africa. His showing at and under sea has frittled out. His ally, Italy, is disintegrating. He's failed to catch Spain as he'd hoped. Japan, except on its own account, doesn't care a hoot for him.

And, of course, everybody knows how he's hated in the countries he has overrun, France included.

Moreover, he's hoped for sympathy, at worst, in Latin America, and he hasn't had that, except in a couple of republics which haven't broken relations or declared war against him.

The dope, then, is that the tony Germans not only didn't approve of Adolf initially but regard him a frost in outright action. He's had a bit of the worst of the genuine fighting and is due for more of it. He's been diplomatically outmaneuvered. And there's the suspicion that he's lost some of his following with the rank-and-file of Germany.

If he blows up—then what? Who'll follow?

Goering—second to command after Adolf?

Goebbels—Nazi publicity-ite?

Ribbentrop or Himmler, chief Nazi executioner?

The proposition is that none of 'em will fill the bill, since it's Nazism that's blowing up; hence none of its survivors will be available.

It's the military class that'll have to take over.

Only Goering Belongs
Herr Goering belongs to it. None of the rest of 'em do. Herr Goering's connection with 'em will be a count against him. He was quite a civilized militarist originally. Maybe he can rehabilitate himself, but it's a question, after his Nazi affiliation. It's been said he's a sociable beer-drinker and associate in ordinary life. That remains to be demonstrated.

Herr Hitler?

The assumption is that he'll "do the German"—that is to say bumping himself off suicidally at the opportune moment.

Possibly some of his associates will adopt the same policy.

It'll be interesting to watch Benito Mussolini.

He's more of a human being than Adolf is.

The Japs won't be a serious consideration later.

Their military class is bug-house, but it's caliber's immaterial.

Lovely Party Compliments Two Anniversaries

On the occasion of two birthday anniversaries, Mrs. Ormond Dewey complimented her husband, and Mrs. Otis Morrow, with a jolly surprise on Friday evening. The charming hostess promoted an exceptionally gay little party and included a small group of friends for the pleasures.

The dining table was exceptionally lovely in its appointments, with an exquisite lace cloth centered with silver bells and silver leaves on a long mirror. Elegant crystal holders, beautiful with their shining prisms, burned tall tapers of blue and flanked the lovely centerpiece. Blue candles on the buffet illuminated the dining room, adding a delightful note to the party. The seasonal courses were perfectly prepared and served, and the dinner a very happy one.

The sociability of the hour was carried out in merry conversation during the evening, with the lovely living room a perfect setting. Tall tapers burned on the mantel, while blazing logs in the open fireplace lent warmth and cheer to the gay atmosphere.

Besides the honor guests, there were Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Hoy O. Simons, Miss Elizabeth Shoop, Mr. W. W. Shoop, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Dewey enjoyed the pleasures.

Youthful Crowd Enjoys Birthday Dinner and Dance

Pretty Carolyn Flowers was a charming young hostess Friday evening when she entertained a group of the teen age crowd at her home for a delightful dinner party in celebration of her fifteenth birthday.

Wearing a becoming skirt of white winter wool and pastel lavender sweater so attractive to her blonde coloring, the sweet and winsome hostess greeted her guests at seven o'clock. A delicious dinner of appetizing courses was served buffet style, with the "piece de resistance" a beautiful birthday cake which was a work of artistry in its beautiful frosting of pink and yellow roses with "Carolyn" frosted at the top, making a very appropriate "Carolyn Flowers." Just before the dinner the many birthday gifts were opened, arousing much interest and provoking much delight. Dancing and games took up the hour after dinner until time to go to the American Legion. Dance, to which the hostess invited the entire group to attend.

Those participating in the lovely party were the Misses Ruth Ann Long, Victoria Otis, Helen Turner, Jane Annetson, Ruth Adams, Ruth Ann Perrill, Virginia Mark, Dixie Lou Graves, Marilyn Cole and Mary Lou Folis.

Sixty Years of Wedded Life
To Be Observed

One of the unusual achievements many wedded couples wish for and few attain, is sixty years of married life together. Mr. and Mrs. William C. Miller, of the State Road, are observing this rare occasion on Saturday, December 12.

The respect and best wishes of the entire community is extended to them on this highly cherished anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller have spent their entire married life in Paint Township, with the exception of a few years, Mr. Miller being a very well known and prominent farmer.

For the past thirty years they have lived on the same familiar home site near the junction of State Road and the Prairie Road.

Mrs. Miller, the former Miss Callie Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zimmerman, was united in marriage to William C. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Miller of near Milledgeville, prominent farmers, by the Rev. Thomas M. Leslie, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, on December 12, 1882.

Of their five children, three daughters are living, Mrs. Pearl Hays, of Springfield; Mrs. Ethel Graves and Mrs. Dorothy Bowen. They have six grandchildren, three residing in Springfield and three near Washington C. H.

New Officers

The Ladies' Circle of the G. A. R. met Friday afternoon to elect officers for the coming year. There was a good attendance of members assembled in Memorial Hall and an active interest taken in the election.

The ladies reelected Mrs. Hattie Little, as president; the senior vice-president, Mrs. Lucy DeWees; Junior vice-president, Mrs. Stella Hendryx; Treasurer, Mrs. Ethel Sturgeon; Chaplain, Miss Jossie Gossard; Patriotic instructor, Mrs. Madge Pensyl; Registrar, Mrs. Flora Thompson; Condustrer, Mrs. Pearl Crawford; Guard, Mrs. Mae Rodgers.

Besides the election, Christmas plans occupied an interesting discussion.

Thrifty Paulette

This will take you back to the fashions of 1928. Paulette Goddard has a new dinner gown made of one and one-half yards of black jersey. The skirt is the new short length, somewhere between knee and ankle, and the bodice is a halter. With it she wears long black gloves, almost to the shoulders, of matching jersey.

COMING FEATURES AT THE THEATERS

Light and breezy entertainment with a sprinkling of radio celebrities, are the featured pictures on the composite program arranged by the theaters of Washington C. H. for their patrons tense with thoughts of war. And, if there's anything to the belief that thrillers lend themselves to mental relaxation, then next week's offerings should fill the prescription for mysteries of the grisly murder variety will make up a large part of the program.

State Theater
Paramount's latest adventure movie, "The Forest Rangers" will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theater in a blaze of forest fires, hit tunes and technicolor. Based on a novel by Thelma Strabel, the picture is described as a powerful love and adventure story with plentiful touches of comedy and exciting performances by its trio of stars, Paulette Goddard, Fred MacMurray and Susan Hayward. Also on the bill will be the Three Stooges in "Three Smart Saps."

A double horror bill is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday. Terror stalks the countryside and the elm bordered streets of a New England town in "The Mummy's Tomb," starring Lon Chaney, Dick Foran and Elyse Knox. Mystery dominates the action in "Night Monster," starring Bella Lugosi and Lionel Atwill.

On Friday and Saturday the State will have Roy Rogers in "Sheriff of Tombstone," the next chapter of "The Iron Claw" and a cartoon.

Palace Theater
The week is to be opened at the Palace Theater with Ginger Rogers in "Tom, Dick and Harry," a gay story woven around the hectic romances of an impetuous girl engaged to three young men at the same time. In support will be George Murphy, Alan Marshall and Burgess Meredith in the title roles. Also on the Sunday, Monday and Tuesday bill is the mystery, "X Marks the Spot."

The combining of the raw underworld melodrama with sweet spring as the major entertainment elements is believed to be something new. But the formula works out excellently in "The Mayor of 44th Street," with George Murphy and Ann Shirley, co-starred with Freddie Martin's band as the No. 1 picture of the Tuesday and Wednesday program. The companion picture is the mystery adventure "The Man Who Wouldn't Die," with Lloyd Nolan as the wise-cracking detective.

For Friday and Saturday the Palace has booked a triple bill made up of "The Round-up" with Al "Fuzzy" St. John, "The Perils of Nyoka" and a Disney cartoon.

Fayette Theater
What happens when a young enlistee sets the stage to marry a beautiful society girl and win a sizeable fortune only to find himself stymied by love, provides the story for the sparkling musical revue "Seven Days' Leave," starring Victor Mature and Lucille Ball which will come to the Fayette Theater on Sunday and Monday. The picture is filled with radio personalities and scenes from actual radio broadcasts with lots of singing and dancing.

Rated as one of the unusual and exciting plots of the year, the suspense "The Falcon's Brother," brings to the Fayette screen Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, George Sanders and Jane Randolph. An exciting manhunt through New York City and Long Island coastal towns for a mystery killer, who is clicking off his victims with regularity offers the plot background.

Combining a happy blend of thrills and comedy, "The Hidden Hand" opens Friday at the Fayette and remains through Saturday. It tells the tale of an accented spinster who uses her insane brother to terrorize her family, only to get more horror than she bargained for.

Show Your Colors
Watch the colors you wear, girls, if you would cheer the service boys you entertain. That's the advice given in the Girls' Service Organization Manual, published by the National Council of the YWCA. Since the boys wear navy blue or khaki day in and day out, the wise girl will not wear these unrelieved colors. Pink and blue are always good; red, combined with green or white, is a favorite. A fresh flower and a colored handkerchief can brighten a costume and lend a feminine touch the boys like.

High scores for the afternoon were held by Mrs. Fred Enslin and Mrs. Henry Brownell.

Eber P.-T.A.
The Eber P.-T.A. meeting has been postponed until the first week in January.

Friday Bridge Club Entertained
By Mrs. Limes

The Friday dessert-bridge club was indebted to Mrs. W. H. Limes for pleasurable entertainment, when she opened her attractive home on Broadway for their regular meeting.

The informal get-together of this little club immediately after luncheon to enjoy the dessert course together, is always a happy prelude to the afternoon's bridge game.

Mrs. Limes served a tempting dessert at the two small tables, prettily appointed. Christmas suggestions were featured in the centerpiece and in the tally placecards.

ICE CREAM OUTPUT TO BE CURTAILED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The War Production Board today curtailed the commercial manufacture of ice cream, frozen custard, milk, sherbert and other frozen desserts of ice cream mix during December and January to 60 percent of October output, to conserve butterfat for butter.

But, government officials were quick to point out that it was not planned to ban ice cream manufacture, though some new and fruity flavors might replace old standbys.

Clyde E. Beardslee, chief of WPB's dairy products section, said the butter fat saved by the order would be sufficient to make 3,300,000 pounds of butter during December, equivalent to about three percent of the total butter output in December, 1941.

leaving another in flames off Tripoli.

At the same time, it was announced that Allied heavy bombers, defying the big Axis air fleet based in Sicily, flew from Mediterranean bases in broad daylight yesterday to blast the southern Italy port of Naples, a major base for supplying Axis forces in North Africa.

The Italian High Command acknowledged that the raiders inflicted "heavy damage and numerous casualties among the civilian population." It listed 159 killed and 456 wounded.

In the Russian campaign, the Red Army's offensive engulfed 11 more towns in the Stalinograd sector, killed at least 3,140 Germans and sharply narrowed the vital "escape corridor" of the Nazi siege lines.

Soviet military experts said Russian troops driving simultaneously from the north and south to cut off the German route of retreat were now apparently only a few miles apart. Dispatches said the Germans were hastily forming new defense lines.

Below Stalingrad, dispatches to Red Star said, the Russians smashed a new German line, fortified within the last few days.

On the central (Moscow) front, Soviet headquarters reported 1,040 German dead were left on the battlefield around Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow, where the Red armies have all but encircled the big German citadel.

ed on a larger scale to provide badly needed labor."

The 58 Kentuckians, most of whom got their basic agricultural training on scraggy garden plots in the rocky hills back home, were used as "guinea pigs" to determine whether men from sub-marginal lands could be trained quickly to relieve manpower shortages in thriving agriculture areas.

In describing the experiment "an entire success," William G. Winemiller of the farm security administration said the men showed a willingness to learn a style of farming utterly unknown to them and displayed the ability to grasp new problems at once.

The task of rapid education was turned over to Floyd DeLashmuth, Ohio State University professor of rural economics.

"It's amazing," he remarked. "They showed more eagerness to learn than the average undergraduate. They are good, honest men, and they have ability. I think every man who sticks it out will certainly get a job on a good farm."

Fourteen of the men couldn't stick it out and went home because of "severe homesickness." After they are hired, the government will help them bring their wives and children to new homes.

must show the way to a decent standard of living for the country, or "surrender to the social politicians who have little to offer save an ultimate bankruptcy."

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told the industrialists that he was concerned by "a feeling in some quarters that we are building too large an army—that we could not transport it to active theaters even if we had it—in short, the belief that we do not know what we are doing or where we are going."

"No more tragic mistake could be made," he declared, "than to ignore the great mass of enemy divisions and expect us to win this war on a shoe-string or by some specialized process."

On the Farm

By Thomas E. Berry

though, is grateful for the help he can get, and he will rejoice when conditions again become normal, but he can't expect that for the duration.

FEED HOGS ON CLOVER NEXT SUMMER—That's the advice of a successful farmer who is planning to buy a picker next fall, if he can get one.

"Why not hog the corn down and save all that labor?" I asked.

Picking is a more profitable thing to do," he replied. Then he told me that he could get his corn picked for about eight cents a bushel, by keeping his yield above 75 bushels per acre, for men operating corn pickers charge by the acre. The man who has a high yield gets a lower cost per bushel than the man with a low yield.

"He's got something there," as a neighbor expressed it. This is just one of the many arguments for high acre yields for they are usually associated with low production costs, and so the margin of profit is widened; and if you can't operate at a profit you can't stay in business.

When I was growing up on the home farm I often heard it said that the farmer was the only man who could operate at a loss and still stay in business, but that isn't true. He will finally be eliminated. This corn picking idea, of high yield crops, fed in summer on clover is sound. You can't make a mistake by using it.

STACKING SHREDDER FODDER—That's a large stack of shredded fodder and those dairy and beef cows and sheep are making good use of it this cold day. I recently said to a very good Ohio farmer who was driving with me.

"Yes, that's a good job of stacking but there is sometimes some hazard in feeding fodder that way," he said.

"Some years that works all right, but if we have a lot of rain and an open winter, it is pretty apt to have places in it that are mouldy and as it slips down between the poles, as it is eaten from below, a valuable animal may fill up on this mouldy feed, and get a serious case of forage poisoning."

Then he told me that he had had this experience and that he didn't stack any more fodder outside.

Of course there is a lot to say for this farm practice. If you have a lot of fodder and not much mow, it is convenient way to store it, so that some of the livestock can eat a very nutritious roughage outside, in the sun and fresh air, where they will get plenty of vitamins, so essential for any form of animal life.

SWEET CLOVER AND OATS FOR HAY

That's a combination crop that was recommended to me this week. If you think you are going to be short of hay next year, try it and get it out as early in the spring as you can, and get it cut about the time the oats are in advanced dough stage and well cured, you'll have hay that will put the milk in the pail, as he described it.

I might add that you may have some trouble with mice in this hay, but if you don't make too much of it, and feed it out in a few months in the late fall or winter season, they won't get very well established, and they won't damage it much.

FORMER COMMANDER OF LEGION WOUNDED

Gen. MacNider Back from New Guinea Front Lines

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 24.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider, former assistant secretary of war who has been with the American task force attacking Buna, received eight wounds last night from a Japanese grenade while in the front lines.

(A spokesman for General Douglas MacArthur in Allied headquarters, Australia, said today Gen. MacNider now is in an Australian hospital and recovering nicely. He said the wounds were not serious.)

General MacNider is a former commander of the American Legion. His home is in Mason City, Ia.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The stock market moved over a slightly uneven route in today's early transactions.

Market optimists saw a constructive indicator in the compilation of the National Industrial Conference Board disclosing that 25 of the nation's largest manufacturing concerns had assets of approximately $12,700,000,000 at the end of 1941, topping the aggregate of the like 1937 date by some $2,000,000,000.

war units. The Selective Service System recommends deferment of any farm worker found to be producing 16 units or more of essential products.

For example, one milk cow is the equivalent of one unit. Twenty acres of wheat, or 5 acres of corn, or 20 hogs, are each the equivalent of one unit. A farm worker need not devote his time to any one product or combination of products but may produce an assorted combination to be eligible for deferment if his units total 16.

MWMA PETITION ACKNOWLEDGED BY WHITE HOUSE

Mrs. Amanda Paxson Gets Letters from Rep. Brown and President's Secretary

Encouraged by acknowledgment of receipt of their first petition to get strikes outlawed for the duration by the President's secretary, the Militant Wives and Mothers of America, a recently formed organization of women in Washington C. H., has forwarded another petition to the nation's capital, this time direct to "the President of the United States of America," through the president, Mrs. Amanda M. Paxson.

In her letter accompanying the petitions, Mrs. Paxson wrote the President: "Thank you for your secretary's (W. H. McIntyre) assurance that our petitions will have your attention. We sincerely hope the secretary of labor and the War Boards can be made to see how they are aiding the Axis by not stopping strikes while we are at war."

"The eight saboteurs who landed on our shores stealthily to intentionally harm and slow down production were caught and punished. Strikers harm and slow down our war program openly and defiantly. Those who call the strikes go unpunished and glibly call other walkouts over such unimportant things as smoking privileges."

"We wives and mothers . . . of the boys who are being called on to make the supreme sacrifice can see no difference between such people and the eight saboteurs."

The first petitions were sent to Rep. Clarence J. Brown, who represents this, the seventh, Ohio district in the United States Congress, with a request that he bring them to the attention of Congress and the President.

Rep. Brown's acknowledgement of receipt of the petitions and his reactions to the move launched by the group here are given in the letter Mrs. Paxson received from him. It follows in full:

"Your letter of November 20, together with the enclosed petitions, has been received."

"While I was home prior to the election I learned something of the good work you have been doing in this connection, and wish to congratulate you and express my appreciation."

"It will be a real pleasure for me to forward your petition on to the President with the request that they receive his earnest attention."

"Perhaps you will remember that as a member of Congress I have consistently voted for all labor reform legislation, including the Smith Bill, which would have eliminated defense strikes and many other unsatisfactory labor conditions. The House of Representatives passed this legislation, but it was held up in the Senate upon the suggestion and request of the President."

"So it seems to me that in having your petitions forwarded on to the President you are reaching to the one person who is most directly responsible for the present unsatisfactory conditions."

"Thanking you for writing me and assuring you of my interest and cooperation, I am . . ."

It was from Rep. Brown that the petitions from the Washington C. H. group reached the White House and while they may not yet have reached the President himself, his secretary assured Mrs. Paxson that they would be available to him in the following letter of acknowledgment.

"Through the courtesy of Congressman Brown the petitions which you forwarded to the President have been received. You may be sure that they will be made available to him."

296 AUTO TITLES CHANGE IN MONTH

Only Two New Automobiles Sold in November

According to the automobile title records at the office of Clerk of Courts, Mrs. Olive Icenhower, which are in charge of Deputy Clerk Mrs. Mary Louise Groff, a total of 296 automobiles changed hands in Fayette County during November.

Of this number, only two were new automobiles.

The number of used cars changing hands was somewhat heavier than usual at this time of the year.

'BLACKOUT' IN POLICE CIRCLES OVER NIGHT

The door of the city "jail house" was standing wide open, Saturday morning, and not a single arrest was made over night—this being somewhat unusual.

Not only were there no arrests but the number of calls were fewer than usual, so that it was a virtual "blackout" for the police.

County Courts

ASKS ACCOUNTING

Edwin F. Jones, in a suit in Common Pleas Court, makes Sheriff W. H. Icenhower defendant and asks recovery of three diamonds which he claims he gave Icenhower as security on behalf of payment of $583.24 made by Icenhower to him on September 28, 1938.

Jones claims that there were two diamonds set in the pins and one in a ring. He states that on December 4, 1942, he tendered $730 to Icenhower as payment of the amount advanced, with interest at six percent, and he refused to accept the amount and turn over the diamonds.

Jones asks an accounting be taken between Icenhower and himself and that he be allowed to make payment and recover the rings. Jones is represented by W. S. Paxson.

BAPTIST CHURCH CHRISTMAS PLAY

'No Room in the Hotel' Is To Be Given Sunday Afternoon

"No Room in the Hotel," by Dorothy C. Wilson, is the play chosen for presentation at the annual World Wide Guild Vesper Service, Sunday at 5 P. M. at the First Baptist Church.

This is a very unusual, modern, and true-to-life play, which takes place in a hotel-lobby in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, on Christmas Eve. It shows how a flippant newspaper reporter is the only one of a diversified gathering in a small hotel whose character is changed by the appearance of a poor couple strangely similar to another pair who were refused admittance to an inn many centuries ago. The action throughout is full of twinkling humor, yet carrying with it an undercurrent of pathos and inspiration.

Mary Elizabeth Wood is the director of the play, and the characters are: foreigners, Geraldine Smith and Everett Robinson; clerk, Jeanne Lindsey; reporter, Clara Belle Robinson; traveling saleslady, Mrs. Lawrence Giebelhouse; scrub woman, Leah Krebs; bellboy, Tommy Peterson; poetess, Mrs. Richard McLean; Senator, Rev. H. B. Twining; senator's wife, Mrs. Charles Hurt.

Following the play, the W.W.G. girls will conduct a candle-light service, as has been their custom for the past 27 years on the first Sunday in December. More than 3,000 chapters of the Guild throughout the world will be observing this vesper hour simultaneously throughout the world.

The Wise Kiottian chapter will lead their "little sisters" of the newly organized Amigas group in lighting their candles for an initiation ceremony. Those who will have speaking parts are Mrs. Henry Hoppes, interlocutor; Miss Wood, state social director of the W.W.G.; Mrs. John Case, Guild counselor; Mrs. Jane Townsley, president; Mrs. Porter Campbell, secretary and Mrs. Kenneth Burnett, treasurer. Mrs. Mindonna Kimmey, counselor, and Lorie Merritt, vice-president, will be soloist, with

ESSAY CONTEST IS LAUNCHED BY SEAL COMMITTEE

Grand Prize of $10 With Many Small Amounts For Winners

A county-wide essay contest in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades is being sponsored by the Fayette County Christmas Seal Committee.

Eight prizes of $1 each are to be awarded for the best essay, one in each grade in the county and city schools. A grand prize of $10 will be awarded to the essay considered the best of all those submitted. The general theme for the story or essay is "The Christmas Seal at Work." A maximum of 200 words has been set.

During the week before Thanksgiving every teacher in public schools throughout the county received two booklets, "Talking Points" and "Healthful Living Out of Doors" distributed by the Fayette County Christmas Seal Committee.

"The use of this new teaching unit will aid in improving the health of all school children," said Warren M. Durkee, president of the local Christmas Seal Committee and principal of East Side School.

He explained further, "Each year, the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1700 affiliated associations in their continuous campaign to raise the health level of school children, have an outstanding public health authority prepare a special health teaching unit."

Sixteen "School Kits" were also presented to the various school libraries—six to the Washington City Schools and ten to the Fayette County Schools. Each kit consists of 75 booklets which supply a wealth of all types of information on tuberculosis and the work done to eradicate the disease. All of this material contains information that will be helpful to the boys and girls who take part in the essay contest. They are the beginning of permanent school health libraries which the Fayette County Christmas Seal Committee plans to build up as a part of its 1943 educational health program.

W. J. Hilty, a member of the Christmas Seal executive committee and superintendent of the Fayette County Schools, pointed out that popular health education is one of our most powerful weapons in the fight against tuberculosis.

"By wide-spread knowledge of preventive measures, tuberculosis germs (which are the sole cause of tuberculosis) can be controlled effectively," he said.

Hilty continued, "Too much emphasis cannot be placed on protection against tuberculosis for boys and girls of school age. Tuberculosis is the chief health enemy of persons between 15 and 19, killing and disabling more persons in this age group than any other disease."

Essays are to be submitted to the judges on Friday, December 11, which has been designated in Ohio as School Health Day. Awards are to be made on December 23.

Mary Evelyn Twining as accompanist.

An offering for the World Emergency fund will be taken during the service. Miss Merritt will be at the piano for the prelude and offertory.

HI-Y MINSTREL FRIDAY NIGHT

Script Written by Boys Who Also Compose Cast; Tickets Now on Sale

"The Cotton Club," a minstrel show, will be presented by the Washington C. H. High School Hi-Y Club next Friday night in the high school auditorium.

The entire cast of the show is made up of club members and the minstrel is being directed by Miss Sara L. Keck, high school dramatic coach.

The interlocutor will be Dick Kelly and the end men are to be Bob Allen, Bob Secrests, Don Harper, Stan Mark, Jim Gage, Jim Hidy and Dave Ellys.

The script was written by the boys.

Tickets are now on sale by them. Adult tickets are 30 cents with federal tax included and student tickets are 25 cents. Reserved seat tickets will be taken to Patton's Book Store Saturday afternoon and your regular tickets may be exchanged there at that time.

Rehearsals are being held practically every night so the boys will be ready when the big night comes.
